CCN TABLES

Conference rooms present a unique opportunity to create a special environment. It is a place to collaborate, a place to inform, a place to impress, a place to inspire.

The conference table is the most important element of the conference room as it is a key component in communicating a company's values.

A thoughtfully designed conference table elevates the conversation and can be used to enhance the company's goals.

The advantage of a bespoke approach is the tailoring of our products to meet your specific requirements.

These Aero tables built for Microsoft were designed to fit their angular floor plan.

It starts with a floor plan and a desired number of seating positions. This determines the shape and size.

This brochure is an idea book that hopes to inspire interest. There is a process inherent in developing a bespoke conference table.

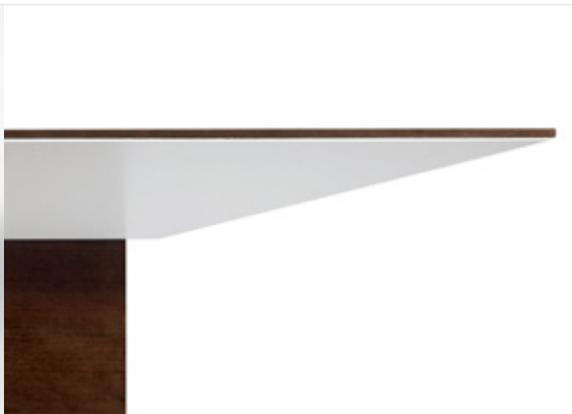

Our process starts with specific requirements and details that include a wide selection of veneer and edge choices, accent materials, and finish options.

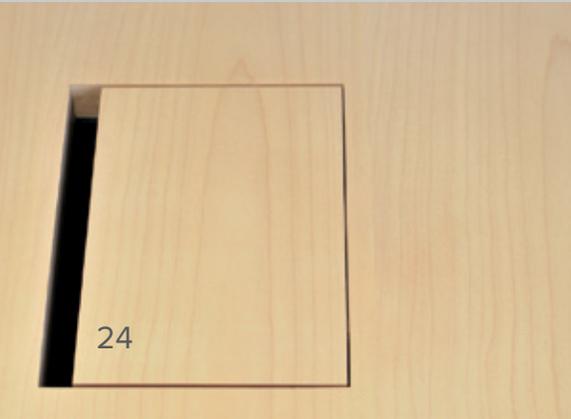

These are opportunities to make a design statement that will impress those sitting around the table that what happens here is important.

Today's tables need to support the power and data requirements of the modern conference room.

Since 1972 CCN has been producing creative and functional solutions that cover a wide variety of customer requirements.

We embrace the opportunity to work with our clients to create unique solutions.

Proven solutions. Customized results. And, a great experience getting there. This is the CCN difference.
